biography

She is a multidisciplinary artist with a deep gaze and a resilient heart. She is the founder of the Resilient Art movement RELUET, which was born after believing she had lost her identity through a swamp when she was connecting with her authenticity.

1999 a goodbye with no return, she disconnected from her identity. The artist's gaze was anchored in that giggly thirteen year old girl who, together with her family, had to start looking for a new home.

2009 she connected her identity with her authenticity and Reluet was born. Expression, emotion and connection turned the name of her loving home, Teuler, upside down.

Each work is a visual narrative that gives rise to a beautiful confluence of rivers, dialogue between the viewer, the creator and the work. An invitation to recognise and celebrate the complexity of human emotions and connections with the natural and social environment. A journey to drop thoughts and keep the viewer awake with a desire to flow.
